

Abstract

In a mobile station-mobile receiver arrangement a method and apparatus for a radio link control (RLC) protocol that allows partial recovery of data for streaming services. The maximum number of retransmissions allowed by the method for each RLC
5 block is a function of the maximum delivery delay required by the streaming service and the round trip delay.